Senior Class of Newfane Central School

Newfane, New York

"Through These Hallowed Halls"

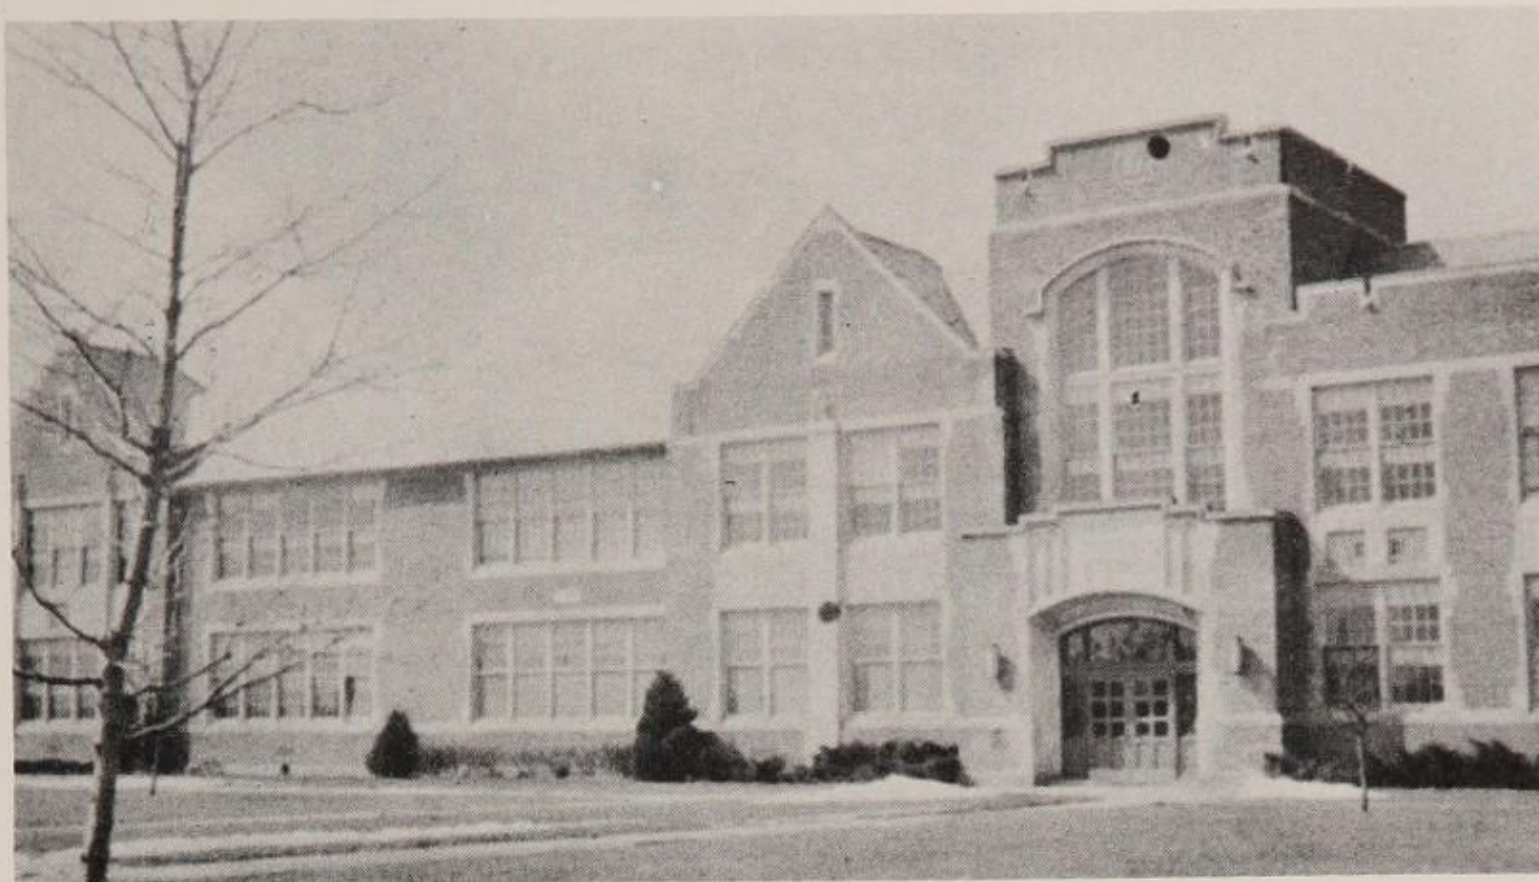

SEPT. OCT. NOV. DEC. JAN. N.C.S. FEB. MAR. APR. MAY

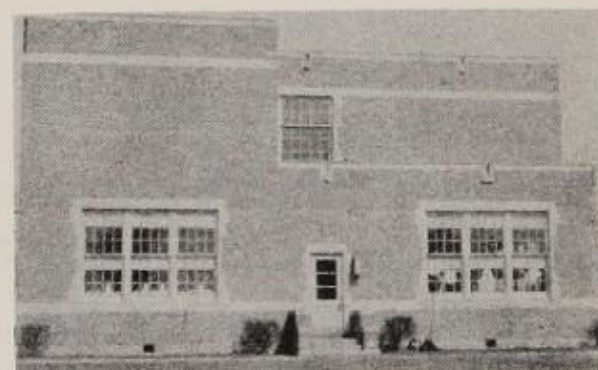

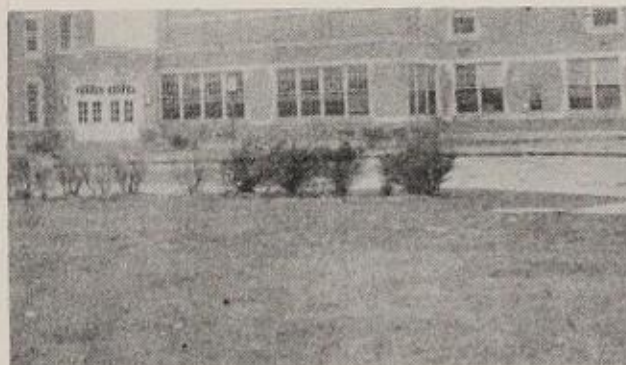

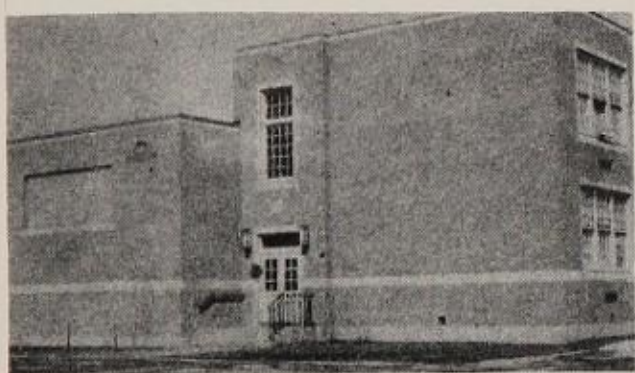

Mrs. Mabel S. Lee

Ex Libris

Mrs. Mabel S. Lee joins us in our travels
"Through These Hallowed Halls" as our new District
Superintendent of the Sole District.

NEWFANE CENTRAL SCHOOL

WRIGHTS CORNERS SCHOOL

OLCOTT SCHOOL

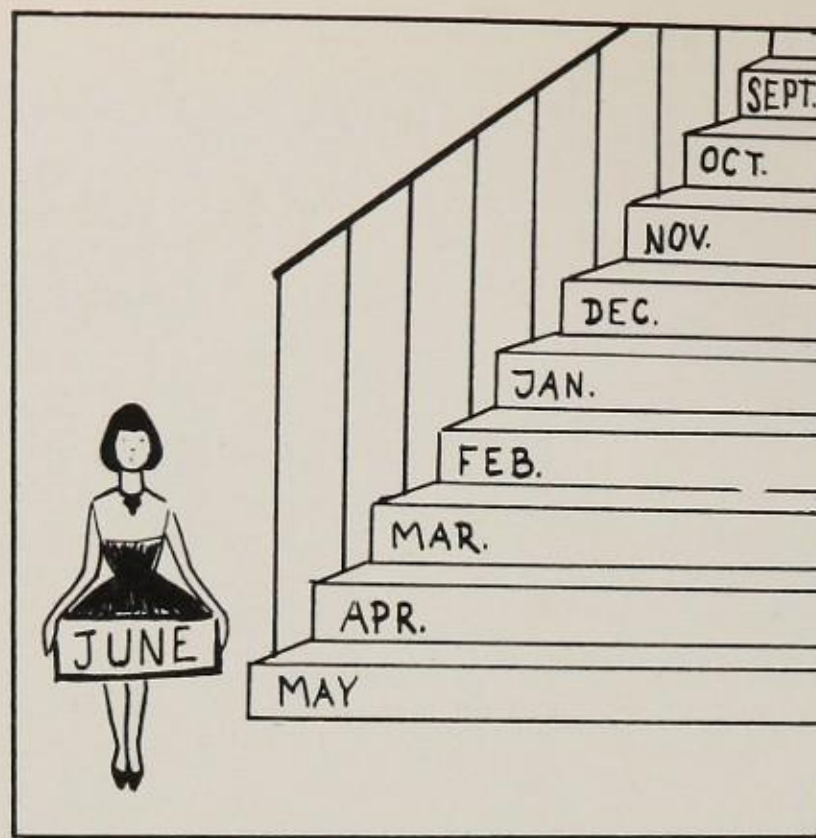

ALMA MATER

Through the years of fun and labor
Thee our hearts shall rule,
One and all we stand to honor
Newfane Central School.

Chorus:
Alma Mater, through the ages
Let thy glory reign
Whether fair or stormy weather
Hail, all hail, Newfane.

Onward in the path of learning
Hold our steadfast way,
While we from our shelter turning
To the world may say.

When our steps are feeble growing
'Neath life's heavy load,
In our hearts the love still growing
Brightens all the road.

Through These Hallowed Halls

Through these hallowed halls many of us have walked--some for the first time this year--some for the last. For those graduated, or soon to be graduated, these hallowed halls echo with many happy memories of years past. For those beginning their schooling at Newfane, these halls ring with laughter and new experiences in knowledge and friendships.

Through these hallowed halls, as we stroll in remembrance, are found memories of the enjoyment and pleasure we had in the many extracurricular activities, of the hours spent in study, and most of all, of the friendships formed. We remember the clubs and organizations, which served as a practice field for the learning acquired in the class room, and which helped to round out our education, making us better citizens. Sports bring back memories of sportsmanship and fellowship. Then, too, many times there has reverberated fun and laughter, as preparations were made for the parties, dances and plays, which contributed so much to the gaiety of our experiences with these hallowed halls. Yes, these hallowed halls do overflow with memories--wonderful memories--of work and play with our friends and fellow students.

Our theme, "Through these hallowed halls," bring a touch of nostalgia as we remember years spent in fun and labor at Newfane Central School, our Alma Mater. Come, join us as we tour these hallowed halls.

Mr. Haley, a graduate of Lockport Senior High School, attended Salem College in West Virginia, where he majored in biology and minored in chemistry. He began teaching in the science department of Newfane Central three years ago, at which time he also became our class advisor.

Throughout our high school years, Mr. Haley was available always to help solve any problems or to work with us on class activities. He always gave of his time most willingly so that we could carry out our class projects successfully. To many in the Senior class, Mr. Haley has been not only a teacher and advisor, but also a friend with whom they could talk freely.

We, the graduating class of 1958, respectfully dedicate our yearbook to you, Mr. Haley, for the many hours you have spent patiently helping us in so many ways.

DEDICATION

This year's theme can be easily interpreted in such a way that it symbolizes our twelve years of learning at Newfane Central School. The last three years were three of the happiest years spent in school. One primary reason for this was the fact that we were fortunate to have as advisors, Miss Liddell and Mr. Haley. They were with us, helping and advising, guiding and suggest-

Miss Liddell, a graduate of Newfane Central School, attended Albany State Teachers College, where she majored in languages. She teaches Latin and French at Newfane.

When our class needed themes for dances, or ideas for assembly programs, she always listened to the students' ideas. When we needed to make preparations for our assemblies, dances, parties or plays, she was always ready and willing to help us. She spent much of her time helping to make our class activities successful.

To Miss Liddell, our class advisor from 1955 until 1958, we want to say "Thank you", with due appreciation for all the unselfish help and advice you have given us. As a small token of our appreciation we dedicate our yearbook to you.

DEDICATION

ing, criticizing and praising during these years. With their help, many of us have become better adjusted to the increasing responsibilities that people acquire in growing up. We can say, in all truthfulness, that we feel extremely proud and fortunate to have had class advisors such as Miss Liddell and Mr. Haley.

It is with grateful appreciation that we, the Senior Class of 1958, use this opportunity to thank our Board of Education for contributing their time and effort to give "These Hallowed Halls" of Newfane Central School the fine qualities they possess.

The board has made it possible for us to have many learning aids and an excellent faculty which have led us to further our education.

We hope we can express our appreciation through this yearbook of 1958.

DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Until February 1, Mr. F. Karl Frohlich was the superintendent of the First Supervisory District of Niagara County, which included Barker, Royalton-Hartland, and Newfane.

Although Mr. Frohlich had served as superintendent of the district for twenty-seven years, Newfane was under his guidance for little more than a year.

The duties of the superintendent include acting as the director of schools, making periodic reports to Albany, and keeping in close contact with all the schools in the district.

Before Mr. Frohlich retired from office, February 1, he was honored at a testimonial dinner, given December 2, at the Park Hotel in Lockport, by the District Teachers Association.

As a result of a reorganization of school districts in this area, Newfane is now in the Sole Supervisory District, which includes the Wilson, Starpoint, Niagara-Wheatfield and Newfane school districts, under Mrs. Mabel S. Lee, who had been superintendent of District No. 2 for many years.

Junior Prom

"Almost Paradise"

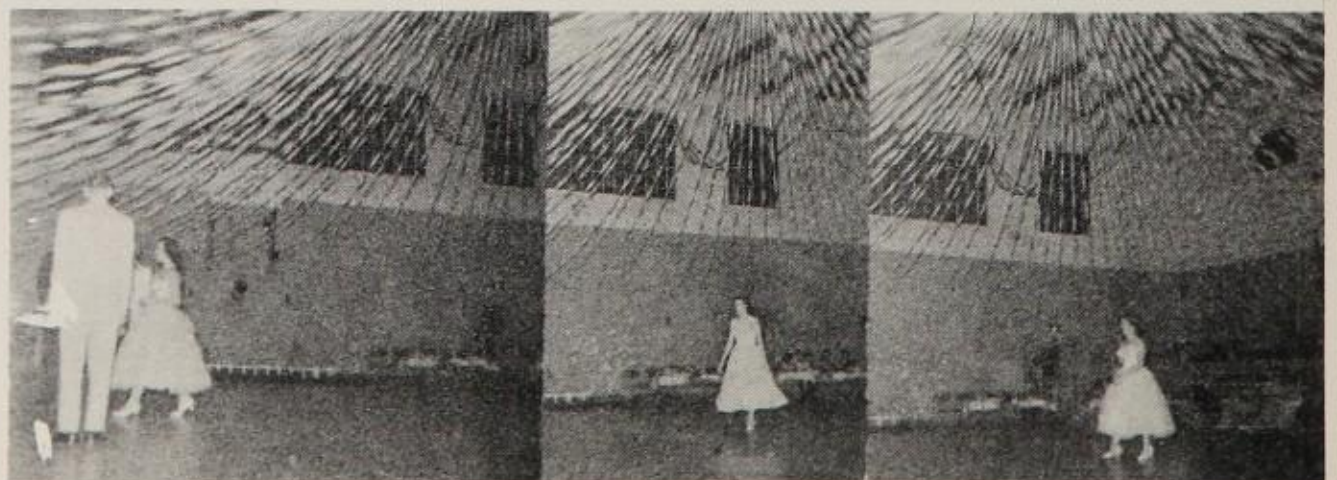

Many couples enjoyed dancing in a beautiful make-believe garden, which was the background for our Junior Prom--"Almost Paradise"--held on May 24, 1957. Frank Loiars and his orchestra furnished the music.

Much planning and preparation went into the dance, under the guidance of the class advisors, Miss Liddell and Mr. Haley. A beautiful garden setting was represented at one end of the school gymnasium, by fresh spring flowers surrounding a small rock garden, with running water representing a brook. Handmade roses formed the centerpiece for each table.

The chairmen of the various committees were Jean Morey, decorations; Marlene Bradley, tickets and programs; Sylvia Linderman, refreshments; Laura Haight, orchestra, and Brenda Barron, chaperones. Lynne DeLange was the general chairman.

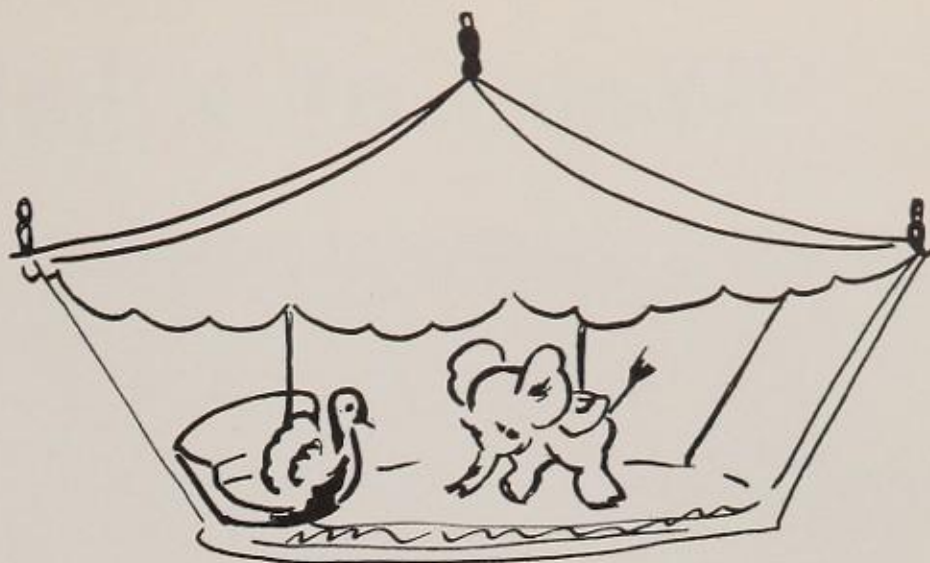

The highlight of the evening came at twelve o'clock when the queen of the Junior Prom, Lynne DeLange, was crowned. The attendants to the queen were Mary Lou Eaton, Jean Morey, Laura Haight, Marlene Bradley, Carol Goff, and Brenda Barron.

The Queen and her attendants were honored at the Newfane Harvest Day Parade in August, 1957, and were sponsored by Shirley and Irene's Dress Shop. Each girl was presented with a bouquet and a small gift.

Senior Ball

"Carousel"

"Carousel"--this word will stir delightful memories in the minds of all who attended the Senior Ball at Newfane Central School on February 11, 1958. Using "Carousel" as the theme, the class converted the gym into a wonderland of pastel streamers and ballons.

As the couples entered, the girls were given pastel green dance programs with pink pencils attached. These were to record the events of the evening. Pastel streamers of green, pink, yellow, blue and white formed a "second ceiling" over the entire gym. Multi-colored ballons, animal cutouts, and bright-hued parasols adorned the walls, and each table had, as a centerpiece, a small replica of a carousel.

At one end of the gym was a large table, with the word, "Carousel" behind it on the wall. On the table were the punch bowls and three large cakes with "Class of '58," "Carousel" and "Senior Ball" written on them. But by far, the most eye-catching decoration was the throne of the "Queen of Carousel." It consisted of a swing--the ropes completely covered with paper carnations of pink, yellow and white. Twined between these, were red paper roses, and, leading up to the throne were risers, where the attendants to the queen were to stand with their escorts.

The music was furnished by Frank Loiars and his orchestra, who were situated under the Carousel "music tent".

The crowning glory of the evening was the announcement of the queen, who had been chosen by vote of the students. At midnight, as Thomas Hartley called their names, the attendants to the queen entered, one by one, with their escorts and ascended to their places on the platforms which flanked the throne.

The attendants were Marlene Bradley, Phoebe Ferree, Lynne DeLange, Laura Haight, Jean Morey and Sally Jones. Then, the queen, Mary Lou Eaton, was presented, given a bouquet of roses and formally crowned "Queen of Carousel." After this, the queen and her escort were asked to lead the next dance, and as she and her partner danced, a large bag, suspended overhead in the center of the room, showering them with ballons and confetti. The attendants and their escorts were then asked to join in, and soon everyone was dancing.

"Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue"--an old quotation, but very apt in describing the Junior play presented by the class of '58. The three-act comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," was presented on March 29, and 30 at Newfane Central School.

The "something old" was the idea of having a Junior Play--every class has one. The dialogue was new, however, as was the fresh, inspiring talent used.

The "something new" was the idea of having the play "in the round" in the gymnasium, instead of on the stage. An innovation at Newfane, this was the result of a willingness to experiment on the part of Mr. David Manly, who directed the group.

The "something borrowed" was the talent of the members of the class. They included Phoebe Ferree as Penelope Sycamore; Joy Whitmore as Essie; Jean Morey as Rheba; Larry Clark as Paul Sycamore; Russell Pedley as Ed; Donald Botting as Donald, Rheba's boyfriend; Wallace Reid as Boris Kolenkhov; Raymond Reinbolt as Mr. Kirby; Karen Hyde as Mrs. Kirby; Wayne Stein, Michael Day, and Donald Strong as policemen; and Sylvia Linderman as Olga Katrina. Also "borrowed" were the talent of Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, who wrote this masterpiece, and the Dramatists Play Service, Inc., publishers of the play.

The "something blue" was the touch of medical mania that seemed to be circulating around. A female lead with pneumonia, a broken collar-bone, and a dislocated shoulder were all one big headache to Mr. Manly. However, "the show must go on"--and so it did. There was certainly nothing "blue" about the mood of the audience who were, figuratively, of course, "rolling in the aisles". A small matter of exploding firecrackers did not seem to dampen the hilarity in any way, but, rather, added to it.

Junior Play

"The Man Who Came To Dinner"

Senior Play

For the cast, read article

What is the recipe for a successful senior play? Let's try an excellent director, such as Mr. David E. Manly, working with a side-splitting comedy, such as "The Man Who Came To Dinner," (sub-titled, "The Play That Gave Me Ulcers," by the director.) Add a main character like Sheridan Whiteside, celebrated wit and lecturer, played by Danny Clark; some straight roles such as that of Maggie, his secretary, portrayed by Jean Morey; his rather unwilling hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, portrayed by Wallace Reid and Mary Lou Eaton; and Bert Jefferson, eager newspaper editor, played by Tom Hartley, and you have a fairly good start. Now stir in some real character parts; for instance, a zany Hollywood-crazy joker in a plaid coat, like "Bango," played by Llewellyn Drake; a bumbling, well-meaning, would-be-author and country doctor, played by Bob McDonough; a thoroughly confused nurse, Miss Preen, portrayed by Nancy Little; a "slightly" conceited Englishman, played by Dick Harris; and an overly-sophisticated actress, Lorraine Sheldon, portrayed by Sally Jones; and now you have a basic start.

Now add those other vital ingredients: Don Botting as Professor Metz, with that delightful accent; Lynne DeLange, as June Stanley; Russell Pedley as her boyfriend, Sandy; Wayne Stein as Richard Stanley; Larry Clark as John, the butler; Jane Brown as Sarah, the maid; Nancy Gaude and Brenda Barron as Neighbors; Dave Culverwell and Dan Helferty as policemen; Don Strong and Eugene Clare as convicts; Roger Taylor as an expressman; Russell Gardner as Wescott; Bob Bates as a radio technician; Joy Whitmore as Harriet Stanley; and six choir boys. Anita O'Donnell was the general chairman. Now, the recipe is almost complete.

But what would it be without spice? So, for spice, add such unpredictable elements as a mummy case, four penquins, an octopus, and a city full of cockroaches. Then, for a bit of music, add the mad-cap lyrics of "Let's Do It" and--Viola! We have a successful play--almost. For the final garnishing, one must add the work done by all the back-stage committees: Make-up, with Connie Harris as chairman; Publicity, with Laura Haight as chairman; Costumes, under the direction of Greta McArdle; Hand props, with Sylvia Linderman as chairman; Stage props, handled by Jim Stuckey; Ushers, under Jim Gilson's direction; and of course, the business part, handled by Marlene Bradley's committee. George Craggs provided sound effects.

Put these all together, using a lot of hard work, fun, and, above all, co-operation; let it "cook" for about six weeks and you have a fast-moving, three act comedy.

While it is "cooking", let the "master chefs", Mrs. Przondak and Mr. Capen, prepare those difficult props and Mr. Weber prepare the lighting and staging. When it is ready to be presented to the public, let Miss McBrien and Mrs. Ives put on the decorations--mustaches and make-up, eye-brows and beards, and the finished product is ready--"A thing of beauty" as it were.

Written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, and published by the Dramatists Play Service, Inc., the play was presented in the auditorium of Newfane Central School on November 22 and 23.

Class Prophecy

Well, here it is--1978, and for the sake of scientific research, (or maybe just for fun) we have decided to find out how the class of '58 has fared in the twenty years since their graduation from Newfane Central. We've decided to do this by means of an airplane-and-rocket trip around the universe.

First we will stop at the office of the Interplanetary Galaxial Ruler, where the wife of the ruler, Jean Morey, receives us graciously. While our visas are being prepared by June Ergott, chief of interplanetary visas, we can watch "Shat's My Line" (celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary) on their six-dimensional television set. Right here we meet a large group of our alumni. Sir Thomas Hartley, noted news analyst, is moderating the panel, which consists of Mary Lou Eaton, creator of the famous "Leprechaun Fashions" for Martians; Jim Gilson, celebrated Shakespearean actor, now starring in "Macbeth"; Sally Jones, who is famous for nothing in particular; and Jim Stuckey, wealthy California playboy. The occupations tonight are quite interesting, also. We meet Larry Clark, traffic cop for Sputniks; Sue Harrington, professional bug-slapper at the Arctic Circle; and Diane Wilson, private hairdresser for the Moon's version of "Gorgeous George". The special guest is Dave Culverwell, renowned chef at the Waldorf Astoria.

After having our visas cleared we can embark on our tour, first by airplane. Our pilot for the trip is Russell Gardner, the astro-navigator, for this trip, and for the rocket trip the pilot is Joy Whitmore. As we enter the plane, we are degravified by our stewardess, Shirley Culverwell. We're off!

We are now over Outer Zplyxt, and there is some kind of a ceremony in progress! Why, the king of the country, Wally Reid, is marrying the princess of South Murgatroid, Karen Hyde. Vocalist Dwain Greenawalt is singing the national anthem, "Waltz Me Down to the Altar, Walter".

On to Africa, where we find Don Botting, fitting braces for buck toothed fish, and Marlene Bradley, typing dittoes for a Mau-Mau speech class. Look! Isn't that a set for a movie over there? Well! It's the set for Irene Body's newest picture, "Sheena", and there's her co-star, Dick Harris as "Tarzan". Now, we are over Egypt. We see Nancy Jackson, weaving silk veils for the wife of Sulton, Roger Taylor, and Joan Lentivech, designing hair bands for Gretchen Saeger, the Queen of Sheeba. Nancy Gaude is in the Sahara, coaching the record-breaking Egyptian swimming team. Flying over Australia, we see Anita O'Donnell rehearsing with her all-kangaroo band. They're rehearsing their theme song "At the Hop". Bob Hays, press agent for the group, is composing another song for them called, "It's in the Bag"--South America is in sight! Of course, there is a bull-fight in progress. Let's see whom we know! Why, it's Danny Clark coming into the ring like a matador--Whoops! He's being carried out by Bob "Doc" McDonough, assisted by Nancy Little. Waiting to see if blood is needed is George Knieser, celebrated marathon blood donor. We now "shoot" over to England, where we seek out some more of our former students(?) We find Llewellyn Drake, now Dean of Oxford University and the President of Cambridge, Earl Poyfair. Carl Berry, we learn is creator of the "new look", being worn by all fashionable ladies this year. Look! There's Jane Brown, Scotland Yard sleuth, on the trail of a criminal--certainly not one of our former students! Over to Venice now, where we see Bob Bates, wealthy fish-stripping millionaire on another of his world tours. He is being entertained by Brenda Barron, gondolier, who is singing a Venetian love song. In Monaco, at the palace, we see Dick Aikin--babysitter for Grace Kelly's ten children. He looks busy, too! Now, we go back to see which of our friends stayed in the good old U. S. A. Coming in over Florida, we spot Bruce Adams, wrestling alligators. Also we find JoAnne Drake, who has built a reactor and is supplying atomic power to the entire South. Jim Gow is selling turkeys on his own farm. Anybody want a neck? In Niagara Falls, there seems to be a festival going on. It's Laura Haight, trying to re-enact the original "Maid of the Mist" ceremony. Up in Alaska, Carol Goff is making a fortune selling refrigerators to the Eskimos.--We read in the New York Times that Eugene Clare, dictator of the U.S.S.R., has sent Phoebe Ferree, one-time political boss, to Siberia, where she is sifting salt for the Bob Schultz Salt and Soda factory. In the sports section, we notice that Marion Johnson has set another pole-vaulting record in the Alps and the stock brokers column, by Greta McArdle, reports that the Wayne Stein Trumpet works stock has gone up forty-three points owing to its endorsement by Kim Stevens, new dancing sensation. Her manager is the noted critic and actor, Joel Erickson.

Now we blast off into outer-space, where we stop at the extra-terrestrial library, owned by Francis Strong, to look up the biographies of some of our famous alumni in "Who's What," written by Connie Harris. We find George Craggs, chief meteor-classifier to United Universe Inc.; Lynne DeLange, putting rings on the fingers of Saturnians, and Dan Helferty, construction engineer of underground sidewalks for very short Martians.

Football

Football presented a bright picture in the '57 season at Newfane, after the previous no-win year. Captained by Eugene Clare and coached by Coach Duffy, the team charged through 2 wins, 1 tie, and 3 defeats. The '57 team started the season at a thundering pace and produced a great show of new energy and skill in Newfane football. Here's a salute for the '57 team, and a hope that next year's season will result in victory for the Alma Mater.

Newfane 12	Barker	0
Newfane 7	Royalton-Hartland	31
Newfane 0	Lewiston-Porter	33
Newfane 0	Medina	30
Newfane 25	Starpont	6
Newfane 0	Akron	0
Newfane 7	Wilson	2

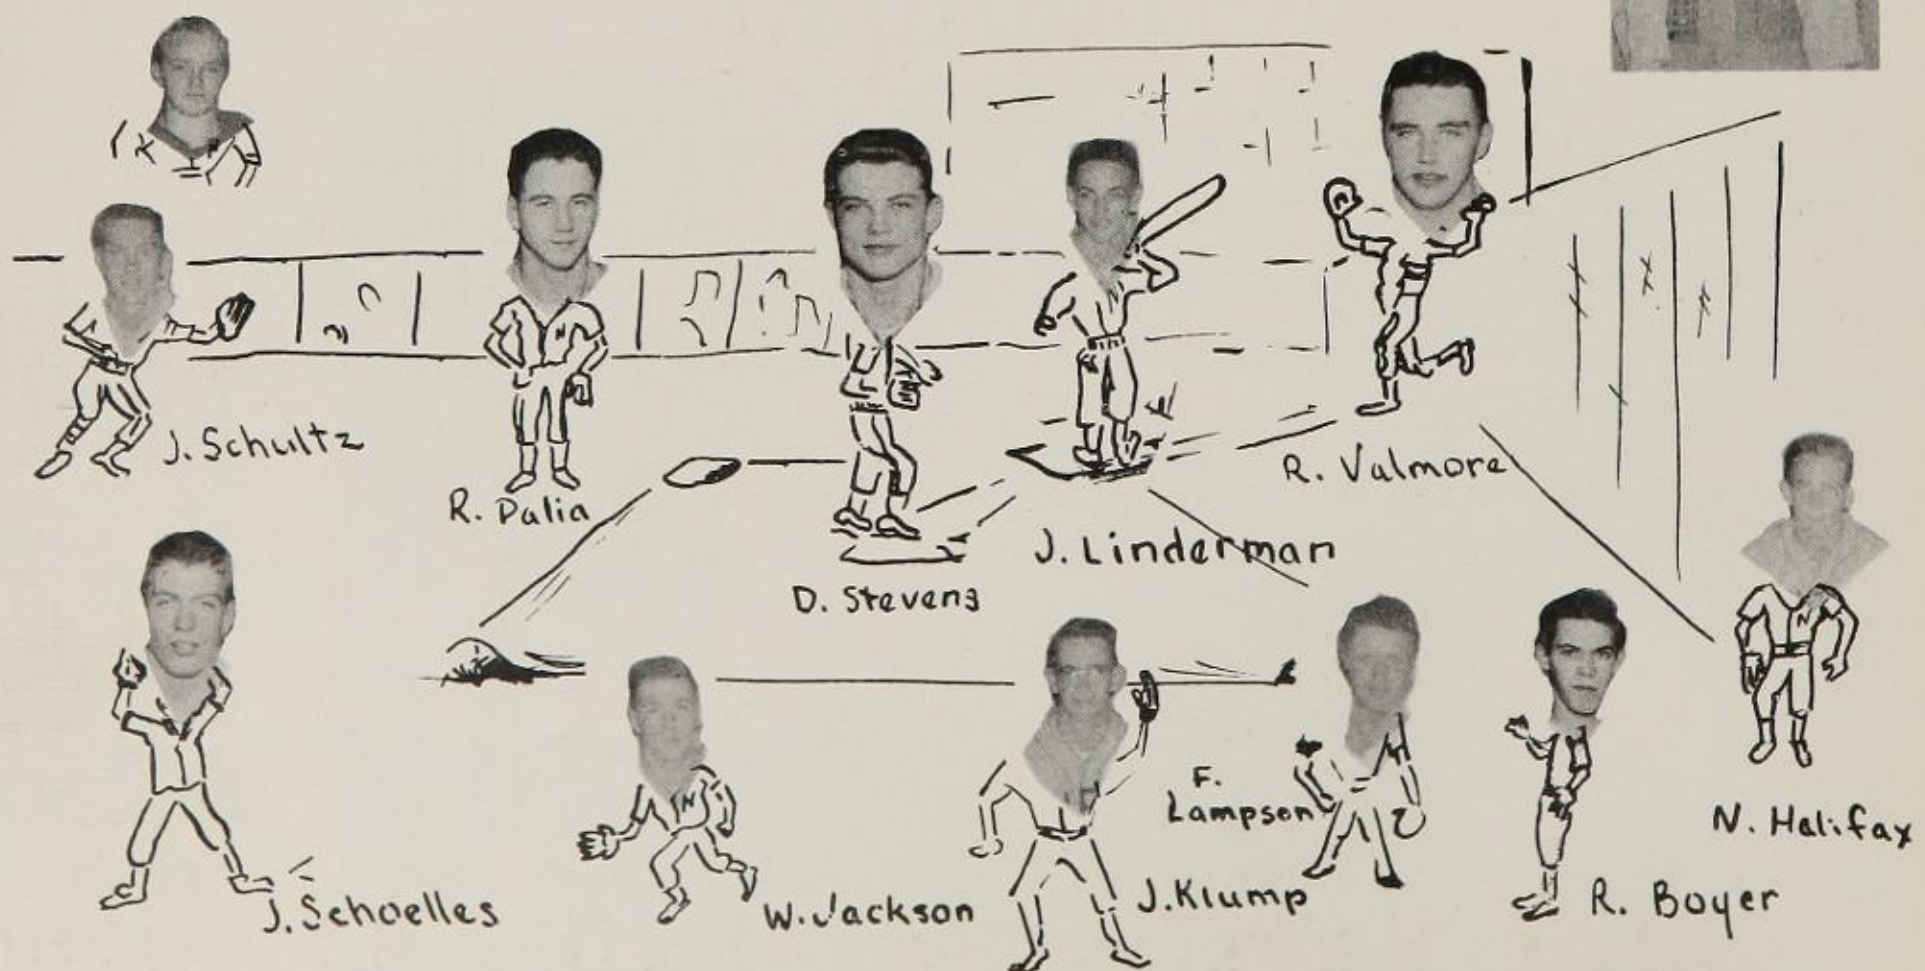

The 1957 baseball team certainly did well by ending up in a tie with Akron for first place in the league. After losing the first game to Lewiston-Porter, Newfane went on to win the next seven. They then lost the next one to Akron but beat Barker to give them eight wins and two losses. The highlight of the season was a no-hitter, pitched by Douglas Stevens against Starpoint. Although Newfane lost many players, via graduation, we hope that Newfane will be successful in the year to come.

SOCCER

Under gray, cloudy skies last fall, one could see teams of girls clad in bright shorts and dark knee guards. These were the members of one of five girls' extramural soccer teams. The captains for soccer extramurals were Irma Lee Dodge, Katherine Class, Mary Jane Kerwin, Terrell Taylor, and Elsbeth Bredefeld.

Unfortunately, the gray skies didn't allow for the playing of enough games for a champion team to come to victory.

BASKETBALL

On Tuesday and Thursday nights, about mid-year, you could hear the victorious shouts of the girls' extramural basketball teams echoing down these hallowed halls. Among the loudest of these were those coming from the members of Elsbeth Bredefeld's team, as they were the champions of basketball extramurals. Other captains were Barbara Janas, Sue Bentley, Judy Bates, and Catherine Torriere.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Girls' Athletic Council functioned very well this year. The Council was active in spreading sportsmanship throughout the school. Playdays were also enjoyed by many, and these events were sponsored by the G.A.C.

Four girls from each class, 7-12, make up the Girls' Athletic Council. They are chosen by a class vote, on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship, and service to the school.

During the football and basketball seasons the G.A.C. sold pop and candy at the home games.

The success of the Sock Hop added greatly to the organization funds. The girls also sponsored a dance in the spring and an assembly was given in April.

At the awards assembly presented every June, the G.A.C. gives awards to girls who have earned sufficient credit by participating in extramural sports.

The officers during 1957 and 1958 were Lynne DeLange, president; Heather Place, vice president; Mary Lou Eaton, secretary; and Mary DiTullio, treasurer.

VARSIITY CHEERLEADERS

The Varsity Cheerleading squad consists of nine girls from grades 10-12. There are two from each grade and three more from any of these grades to make up the nine. Chosen for this year's squad on the basis of their pep, personality, ability, and leadership were Virginia Bridgeman, Barbara Beutel, Marilou Powers, and Sharon Greenwald, sophomores; Heather Place and Joyce VanAlstyne, juniors; and Mary Lou Eaton, Jean Morey, and Lynne DeLange, seniors. Mary Lou, Jean, and Lynne completed three years of Varsity cheering, and Jean was the captain this year.

The cheerleaders held pep assemblies and they went to Hamburg and Roy-Hart to Cheerleading Rallies.

Each girl felt proud to be able to work with the others to cheer the team to victory, and to promote good sportsmanship among all.

The Junior Varsity squad is made up of five girls from the Freshman class. This year they were Susan Sahm, captain; Judy Bates, Carol Just, Joan Hyde, and Carol Drake.

These girls helped the Varsity girls by cheering at the home games. They also helped spread school spirit and good sportsmanship throughout the school.

VARSIITY CLUB

The Varsity Club had a very active and successful year. In the beginning of the year the following officers were chosen: Eugene Clare, president; Robert Ascher, vice president; Norman Schnittker, secretary, and Fredrick Lampman, treasurer. Eugene Clare was elected treasurer of the athletic account. During the basketball season the Varsity Club sold and collected tickets at the door. In January the senior members received their jackets. A Sports Night was held in April, and the annual Varsity Club banquet was held in June.

We're all hungry after that long trip, so we'll stop at one of Ted Wagner's "Rocket-hop Satellites". We find that Sylvia Linderman has her name in light, "Sylvia's Scintillating Satellite-Sandwiches served here." We dine on Ray Reinbolt's Pickled Watermelon Rinds, Cindy Sennett's Carmel Candy, and Russell Pedley's famous (or Notorious?) Chocolate Covered Pizza. After this meal, Bob Bradley, chief cook and bottle-washer here, brings us some Alka Seltzer. While we recover, we notice Dick Bowers, pumping jet fuel for the diesel rockets of the Earl Ehrenhardt Jet Transport Company.

At the space-museum, we find Doug Macaulay, who is unveiling a display of paintings by Harold O'Connor. What's that going past? Well! It's Phyllis Koeppen, upholding the fine American tradition of being a housewife--in her rocket trailer. It is trailing a poster announcing Don Strong and Pat Harding's new revue, with "50 (count 'em) 50" green Martians.

And, we learn that, finally, Bill Bailey has come home.

Activities

HONOR SOCIETY

The Newfane Chapter of the National Honor Society had its origin in the Student Council under the supervision of Miss Viverette. Plans were formulated in the early spring of 1957.

In May of 1957, the Newfane chapter began its operation with Mrs. Klock, of the Science Department, as its advisor.

There were eleven charter members, Juniors and Seniors who had an overall average of 88, and who met the other qualifications in the areas of character, leadership, and service.

The chapter then developed its constitution and made application for membership to the National Honor Society, and the charter arrived in September of 1957.

The second "tapping assembly" occurred in October 1957, with the admission of nineteen new members. Another "tapping assembly" was held in April, 1958, when Lynne DeLange and JoAnne Gow received membership.

Regular monthly meetings are held after school on the last school Tuesday of the month.

The Society has performed three special services this school year: The operation of the school's individual picture program, the compilation of a poll list of the eligible voters in the entire school district, and the performance of the judging of entries in the Freshman Science Fair.

The Newfane Chapter of the National Honor Society endeavors to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in the students of Newfane Central School.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

The Future Homemakers of America had a very successful year under the guidance of their officers, President, Carol Volschow; Vice-President, Maureen Fitzgerald; Secretary, Rosalie Millis; and Treasurer Elsbeth Bredefeld. Their advisor is Miss Viverette.

October, the time of pumpkins and witches, was a month of bewitching social activities and Cinderella coaches for new members. It began with a rush tea. Then there was a week of informal initiation followed by the formal at the Park Hotel on October 18. Also in October five members attended the fall rally at Alden, New York, and the F H A officers presented a program at Starpoint.

November, the month of thanks and feasting, was spent in preparation for the dance, "Turkey in the Straw," held November 15. Rudy Coumont furnished the music for round and square dancing and a thankless gobbler was given away as a prize.

In December, the yuletide month, F H A's annual event, Holly Hanging, which was held on December 16, kept the girls busy.

Special services were performed by all the members for the benefit of faculty and students during F H A week in March.

The annual magazine sale was sponsored throughout the month of April showers.

The whole F H A attended the Spring rally at Oakfield, Alabama, in May. Four of the F H A members attended the state meeting at Syracuse that Month, also.

Achievement awards were given to deserving F H A girls in an assembly in rose strewn June.

A very busy club this year was the Junior Red Cross. The members made cookies and party favors, and purchases and wrapped gifts for the Veterans' Hospital in Buffalo.

At intervals during the year, members attended Junior Red Cross suppers at other schools. Their final activity was a picnic, held in June.

The advisor this year was Mrs. Brandt, and the officers were Judith Hill, president; Linda Baker, vice-president; Sharon Steen, secretary; and Carol Volschow, treasurer.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

An innovation at Newfane Central this year was the formation of the Newfane Chapter of the Future Teachers of America. An organization designed to help those students who are interested in teaching, the F T A supplies films, pamphlets, discussions and tours of teachers colleges to assist its members in choosing a college.

Because this was the first year, the main projects were to draw up a constitution and to obtain a charter. But the club also sponsored a "Teacher Recognition Day", and a trip to Buffalo State Teachers College.

The officers elected for the year were President, Helena Jones; Vice-President Linda Feltz; Secretary, Kay Marshall; Treasurer; Catherine Torriere; Historian, Gary Teague; Parliamentarian, Judith Hill; Librarian, Suzanne Nicholas, and Song Leader, Elsbeth Bredefeld. Mr. Chiavaro and Mr. White served as advisors to the group.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR STUDENT COUNCIL

Two very important organizations within these hallowed halls are the Junior and Senior Student Councils, which are made up of representatives from all classes in Junior and Senior high school. Their primary purposes are to foster the growth of democracy, good citizenship, leadership, responsibility, and a good school spirit. They accomplished these aims by providing services to the students, directing the social activities and the assemblies, and sponsoring campaigns and citizenship contests.

The more prominent service events of the Senior Student Council this year were the Student Day, which was held on May 7, the opening of the School Supply Store, and the publication of the Student Handbook to be distributed the first day of school in September.

Aside from revising the constitution and changing the student government to fit the times, a major change in the Council this year was the moving of elections from September to May.

The Council social events of the year were the sponsoring of a dance on April 18, and the holding of a banquet on April 20.

The officers of the Senior Student Council were Raymond Reinbolt, president; Karen Hyde, vice-president; Linda Feltz, recording secretary; Juanita Brandt, corresponding secretary; and Sally Murray, treasurer. The advisor was Miss Viverette.

The Junior Student Council, which had its beginnings this year, has been very busy organizing its government, and establishing its constitution. In the line of service, it held many Junior high dances and sponsored a very successful poster contest on good citizenship.

The officers for the year were Judy Pusateri, president; Gail Farrington, vice-president; Rita Stephanski, secretary; and Sandra Bobzien, treasurer. The advisor was Mrs. Day.

Activities

SENIOR GIRLS CHORUS

During the second period of the school day a short distance from the hall near the music room is found the Senior Girls' Chorus practicing.

The chorus is made up of Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior girls who enjoy singing. Their music is in four parts, with the greater majority of it being sung a cappella.

Last year the chorus received a 6-A rating at the New York State Music Competition Festival. The chorus participated in the Spring Concert, and also was represented at the Niagara County Music Festival, held at Lewiston-Porter Central School.

Mrs. Beccue is the director of the chorus and the officers are Suzanne Harrington, president; Heather Place, vice-president; Sharon Green, treasurer; and Shirley Gasper and Joan Hyde, librarians.

SENIOR BOYS CHORUS

In the past year many have heard strains of music coming from the Senior Boys' Chorus and echoing throughout these hallowed halls. This small but enthusiastic group has progressed from an even smaller number last year, singing three part music, to its present membership of 27, singing four part music.

In addition to participating in school concerts and having representatives attend the Niagara County Music Festival, the boys also have had several social activities such as a closed party in September and "Spring Swing," a spring fantasy which ushered in spring with gay festivities on March 21.

This year, the Chorus' primary objective was the purchasing of blazers for public appearances. Their officers for the year were Raymond Reinbolt, president; Dennis Day, vice president-secretary; and Howard Fitzgerald, treasurer. They are directed and advised by Mrs. Beccue.

SEVENTH GRADE GIRLS' CHORUS

Your reported walked down these hallowed halls and came to the music room where the Seventh Grade Girls' Chorus was practicing.

This chorus had a very successful year, participating in the Spring Concert and an operetta.

Miss Devereaux was the director of the chorus and the officers were Joan Goodling, president; Susan Montgomery, vice-president; Sandra Bobzien, secretary; and Cynthia Millis, treasurer.

SEVENTH GRADE BOYS' CHORUS

To the echoes in these hallowed halls have often been added the voices of the Seventh Grade Boys' Chorus.

Under the direction of Miss Devereaux, the Seventh Grade Boys' Chorus has often combined with the Seventh Grade Girls' Chorus in their activities.

Officers for the year were President, David Darrell; Vice President, Charles Whitmore; Secretary, Michael Nicholas; Treasurer, Joseph Parisi; Librarians, Kevin Gifford and Dwight Horning, and Social Chairman, Robert Smith.

SENIOR BAND

These hallowed halls are often filled with music coming from the auditorium, where the Senior Band is in a practice session.

Under the direction of Mr. Nemeth, the band gave a series of four assemblies this year. These assemblies were for grades K-3, 4-6, 7-8, and 9-12.

Officers for 1957-58 were Bruce Adams, president; Allan McClure, vice president, and Mary Lou Eaton, secretary-treasurer.

Fourteen members of the Senior Band attended the Niagara County Music Festival at Lewiston-Porter Central School on March 1.

Senior Century Staff

The staff for the 1958 "Century" was selected before the close of school in June, 1957. At the first meeting in September, the theme "Through These Hallowed Halls of Newfane Central School" was chosen.

In October, schedules for assignments were distributed to the editors of the various staffs. Each editor was in charge of the work done by his staff.

Early in November the pictures for the yearbook were taken. After Christmas vacation the lay-out staff began its task of piecing together each page. From February through April, many, many hours were spent after school, so that the "Century" could be completed.

Now, as you have gone through our completed book, we sincerely hope that you have enjoyed traveling "Through These Hallowed Halls" with us.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Seldom found in these hallowed halls, but working in the agriculture room, are members of the Future Farmers of America. Under the direction of the advisor, Mr. Bridges, this organization offers future farmers the opportunity to plan and practice the activities they will be required to do after leaving school. These activities include planting and caring for a garden, raising livestock, and learning and practicing the correct methods of plowing.

During March the Future Farmers of America sponsored a poster drive, which stressed safety and good citizenship in the home and on the farm. Cash prizes were awarded to those who made the best posters.

Officers for the year were Armand Rogers, president; Bruce Adams, vice president; Carl Pedley, secretary, and Robert Bates, treasurer.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

The Industrial Arts Club offers to its members an opportunity to obtain practice in various skills, such as wood and metal working. They have many projects, making such articles as lamps. They also sponsor activities such as dances and parties.

The advisor, Mr. Weber, helps to channel the interests of the boys into functions which will have beneficial results. This includes such things as sponsoring a safety-first contest, training them to run a film projector for various classes, and the running of the record players at the school dances. This year the officers were James Gilson, president; Wallace Reid, vice-president; Lee Marsland, secretary, and Larry Clark, treasurer.

LIBRARY CLUB

When you come to the center of the upper hall you find a door that leads to the library. The library club is an indispensable aid to the functioning of the library.

This year new reference materials were added and helpful booklists were prepared by the library club members and distributed to the various classes.

The club went on a field trip to Geneseo State Teachers College this spring, and saw the many opportunities that are available to future librarians.

The librarian, Mrs. Porter, was the advisor to the organization. The officers for the 1957-58 school year were Donald Botting, president; Marlene Bradley, vice-president; Jane Brown, secretary-treasurer.

ART CLUB

A mixup in the school social calendar and confusion over promised and forgotten dates had started the Art Club out on what seemed to be an uneventful year. However, a great deal of fun and interest came to Art Club members at initiation in the fall.

Some members became very efficient paper hangers with the event of the Junior play. Hard work and willing hands made a very attractive stage.

The Art Club held a dance on May 2, in the elementary gym, which they had decorated as a spring garden.

The officers for the year were Bonita Haseley, president; Nancy Little, vice president; John Lutz, point recorder; Nancy Murphy, secretary, and Robert Schultz, treasurer.

CENTORIAN

The school newspaper, the Centorian, is published nine times during the school year. The Junior High staff is made up of students from Grades 7-9, and the Senior High staff consists of students from Grades 10-12. Mitchell Mularz is editor, assisted by two associate editors, Rodney Allen, and Maureen Fitzgerald.

Advisor to the Centorian is Miss McBrien; Mrs. Ives advises the Junior High staff; and Miss Heimerl oversees the typing, including the cutting of stencils, which is done by the Transcription class. After the stencils have been typed and the art work added, the paper is run off by the general office staff.

Many Centorian staff members attended the Annual High School Press Day at St. Bonaventure University, on May 15.
